

Abstract

This is a collaboration service evaluation study conducted together with Society for Community Organizations. The service lasts for three years, and the evaluation study covers the period between April 2020 and April 30, 2022. The main purpose of the project is to investigate if a new model of extended shelter cum supportive service can help street sleepers live off the street in the long-run, and enhance their physical, psycho-social well beings. The study consists of multi-waves of questionnaire surveys and in-depth interviews with service users. The research will have an impact on the advancing of the knowledge regarding effective practices to this disadvantage group. Research assistants will be deployed in data collection and teaching relief will be provided to investigators.